Goldstein, Buckley, Cechman, Rice & Purtz donates items for Haitian relief

FORT MYERS, Fla. (Sept. 8, 2010) – In the aftermath of the crippling earthquake in Haiti, the employees of Goldstein, Buckley, Cechman, Rice & Purtz, P.A., set their sights on helping with the relief effort.

Throughout the summer, bags of clothing, boxes of shoes, and cuddly stuffed animals for children added up to a significant donation delivered last week to Haiti native Pastor Guy H. Veillard at the “Eglise de Dieu la Foi Chretienne” – the Church of God Christian Faith on Evans Avenue in Fort Myers.

Pastor Guy will facilitate delivery of the items to his home country via resource networks he has established in his years helping the Haitian community, he said.

Carleen A. Menist, a 27-year employee of the law firm, made the delivery on behalf of Goldstein, Buckley, Cechman, Rice & Purtz. “We’re always looking for ways to help where there’s a need,” Menist said, citing the firm’s recent donations of school supplies and toys. “Haiti is practically our neighbor. We’re hopeful that receiving these beautiful items will be helpful to the children and families in Haiti who have suffered so much.”
